ANNUAL REPORT 2006

JAMES E. CARMODY
CHIEF OF POLICE

As I look back on my first few months of service as the new Chief of Police for the Wyoming Police Department, there are a number of remarkable “first impressions” that quickly come to mind. First and foremost, I could not be more impressed with the professional caliber of police and civilian staff who make up this organization. I am both humbled and encouraged with the great professional pride and respect demonstrated each day by the men and women who serve the Wyoming community.

When I arrived here in July of 2006, one of my first priorities was to meet with each and every employee. My goals were simple. Get to know them, determine what they expect from me, and where they would like to see this organization go in the future. I found a remarkable distinction amongst the majority of our staff. There is a tremendous desire for organizational integrity and accountability, and a strong commitment to the police profession. I concluded my interviews with a stronger sense of what direction the organization needed to take. I also learned that Sir Robert Peel, the father of modern policing, was right when he stated:

“The police are the public and the public are the police; the police being only members of the public who are paid to give full time attention to duties which are incumbent on every citizen in the interests of community welfare and existence.”

The men and women of the Wyoming Police Department are your neighbors. They sit next to you in church each Sunday. They attend school meetings with their children, along with you and yours. They shop at the same stores, eat at the same restaurants and recreate in the same parks, as you do. They are honest, trustworthy, God fearing, law-abiding citizens, who do a difficult job, during very difficult times. They are less than perfect people, who face constant scrutiny of every action, and criticism for most efforts. Yet they continue to face forward and give their best, even in the face of growing public criticism. However, as Sir Robert so poignantly states, we cannot succeed on our own.

In my short tenure here, I have been equally impressed with the compassion and kindness regularly demonstrated by the citizens of this City. As I move about Wyoming and attend various functions and public events, I have found a spirit of community support that I am heretofore, unaccustomed to. From our citizen police volunteers, to those of you who make up the various neighborhood groups, business associations, school administrations, church groups and our political leaders, you have all stepped forward repeatedly, to make the City of Wyoming a much better place to live and raise a family.

As a police officer, I am honored to have been selected as your Chief of Police, and I am more than honored to work with such a fine collection of police and civilian professionals. As new members of the Wyoming community, my family and I are very excited to be living in such a caring and compassionate city. I look forward to continuing to serve all of you, to the very best of my ability.

Respectfully,

James E. Carmody, Chief of Police

Introduction

Each year the Wyoming Police Department prepares an annual report of crime statistics for the City of Wyoming, the Michigan Incident Crime Reporting (MICR) and the Federal Bureau of Investigation Uniform Crime Report (UCR). This data is compiled from offenses reported to the WYPD, monthly police reports and individual crime incident reports.

The primary objective of this annual report is to provide a reliable set of criminal justice statistics for police administration, operation, and management. The localized study of crime data enables personnel to assess the influence of crime on districts, neighborhoods, and people. Similarly, crime statistics permit analysis among neighboring jurisdictions, and with those of similar populations and other characteristics. A broad examination of the crime data allows individuals to view the nature and movement of crime, underlying changes, and fluctuations throughout the City of Wyoming, the State of Michigan, and the United States.

The WYPD is committed to improving the reliability and validity of our crime reporting data. We are attempting to achieve this goal by study and analysis of major crime indexes, and understanding the impact of classification revisions mandated by the State. As a result, some offense categories have decreased, while others increased. Our efforts are providing a reporting system that will be more accurate, valid, reliable, and compatible with State and Federal standards.

Grant Management

Annual Summary

Ofc. Easterly is responsible for maintaining WYPD grant funding. Active grants include:

Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant: $38,338

The Local Law Enforcement Block Grant (LLEBG) Program was replaced in 2005 by the Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant administered through the Bureau of Justice Assistance. This grant provides funds to units of local government for the purposes of reducing crime and improving public safety. Over the past six years, the Wyoming Police Department has applied for and received over $400,000 in LLEBG funding that was dedicated to the acquisition of police programs, technology and equipment. In 2005, the WYPD was awarded $38,338 in Byrne Memorial grant funds.

Juvenile Accountability Incentive Block Grant: $2,410

The Juvenile Accountability Block Grant (JABG) Program is based on Title III of H.R. 3, The Juvenile Accountability Block Grants Act of 1997, as passed by the House of Representatives on May 8, 1997. The purpose of the JABG Program is to provide States and units of local government with funds to develop programs to promote greater accountability among youth in the juvenile justice system. The WYPD participates in the Kent County Coalition, 17th Circuit Court—Family Division.

Automobile Theft Prevention Authority (ATPA): $93,443

The ATPA was established in 1986 to reduce automobile theft in Michigan. The ATPA provides grants on a competitive basis for programs to reduce auto thefts. The wages, benefits and vehicle expenses of the one WYPD detective assigned to the Combined Auto Theft Team (CATT) is paid through ATPA State grant funding on a 25 percent cash match basis.

Metropolitan Enforcement Team (MET): $97,581

MET is a multi-jurisdictional drug task force. The unit is composed of two teams. The Suburban Team investigates street and mid-level narcotic dealer using traditional investigative techniques. The Conspiracy Team targets and investigates top level narcotics traffickers utilizing historical investigative techniques and the new state money laundering statute, as well as federal statutes in conjunction with several federal agencies. The jurisdiction covered by MET is Kent County. The Wyoming Police Department assigns one Detective to the team and the wages and benefits are covered by the State Grant.

Bullet Proof Vest Grant (BPVG): $7,854

The Department of Justice Bulletproof Vest Program reimburses participating departments for 50% of the purchase price of the ballistic resistant vests issued to police officers. The life-saving capacity of the ballistic vest has been thoroughly documented. The Police Department issues a high-quality ballistic vest to every sworn officer. Officers are required to wear the ballistic vest at all times when working in the field. Ballistic vests lose their ballistic resistant capability over time and must be replaced every five years.

Annual Summary

Communications Center

Sgt. Kim Koster is the supervisor of the Communications Unit. The unit is comprised of one sergeant, four sworn desk officers, and thirteen civilian Emergency Communications Operators. Under the command of Lt. Brad Schutter, the Communication Center coordinates all of the department's communications, from taking the citizens' calls for service, to dispatching officers to them. During 2006, the Communications Center received an 11% increase, or 40,239, in the number of calls requiring police assistance

Wyoming, January 3, 2007-In a decision to cut costs and improve efficiency, the cities of Grandville and Wyoming combined their emergency dispatch services into a single operation.

Prior to the consolidation, Wyoming dispatched its own police officers, while Grand Rapids provided dispatch services the Wyoming Fire Department. Grandville provided its own police and fire dispatch service. Any 911 calls made from cell phones calls are still being routed to one of the county-approved providers, such as the Michigan State Police or the Grand Rapids Police Department.

After three years in the making, the January 3, 2007 crossover proved to be an uneventful transition. Having a single point of contact for Wyoming & Grandville Emergency Services are proving to reduce costs while improving efficiency.

Training Methods

Training Methods

To provide optimum training at the lowest possible cost the department obtains instructor certification for officers in various topics and then has those officers return to the department to deliver the training to the remaining employees. This has allowed the agency to save on travel expenses and tuition costs in many areas of instruction. An added benefit to this method is that it allows us to schedule the training when it is convenient for us and limits the use of overtime for training.
